BEST PRACTICES

1. Active Engagement with the Adopted School

Objective: Strengthen community ties through active involvement with the local school.

Context: The Government Middle School Panjkherwari, located near the college, requires intervention to improve its infrastructure and learning environment.

Practice: The college has initiated a faculty and student exchange program with the school, fostering collaboration between both institutions.

Evidence of Success: This practice has successfully promoted unity and mutual respect between the college and the school. It has also created a sense of belonging and familiarity among the students and staff of both institutions.

Problem: Financial constraints could limit the resources available for adoption programs.

Resources Required: External funding through partnerships, grants, or sponsorships to support the initiative.

2. Corpus Fund

Objective: Provide financial support to students from economically disadvantaged backgrounds.

Context: The college primarily serves girls from economically weaker sections, many of whom face financial barriers to higher education.

Practice: To address this, the college has established a Corpus Fund, solely funded through voluntary contributions from the dedicated staff.

Evidence of Success: The fund has had a positive impact, enabling deserving students to pursue their education without financial hindrances. The success stories of these students inspire others and serve as a testament to the program's effectiveness.

Problem: Ensuring the long-term sustainability of the Corpus Fund is a challenge.

Resources Required: A sustainable fundraising strategy, diversified funding sources, and potential investment options to ensure continuous returns.
